

State Legislators Work On Farmers' Tax Relief Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State legislators went to work today on a farmers' tax relief proposal as they awaited Gov. John Gilligan's 1973-1975 budget and state of the state message.

The governor plans to address a joint session of the Senate and House tonight at 7:30 following an afternoon briefing session with newsmen on the spending document which reportedly will total more than $9.1 billion, compared to $7.9 billion for 1971-1973.

Meanwhile, the House Ways and Means Committee called for the first hearing on a proposed constitutional change giving farmers a break on property taxes. Sponsoring Rep. John Johnson, D-68 Orrville, predicts prompt passage. He will explain the proposal today, and farm groups supporting it will testify later, he said. "I expect it will move out of the House rapidly and get through the Senate by mid-February," said Johnson of the proposal, which would permit assessment of farm property on the basis of current use, instead of potential worth, after being listed as agricultural land on tax rolls for two years.

The proposed amendment, which would go before voters in the May primary, was made necessary by a 1972 Supreme Court decision saying assessments of all property must be on the basis of potential worth, or market value, he said.

Johnson explained that the trend toward "urban sprawl" in Ohio in recent years has forced farm assessments up, while farmers' income from the land has remained about the same.

"In my area, for instance," the Wayne County lawmaker said, "Akron is spreading into four counties, virtually. Cleveland keeps moving south—the cities are getting closer to the farms."

A proposal similar to Johnson's failed in the legislature late last year, but he said the reason "wasn't that there was opposition, it was just that they couldn't agree which way to do it."

His amendment, he said, has been changed in a manner to better meet legal questions. Instead of putting the amendment into the constitution under the uniform taxation section, he said, he proposes to put it in under a section which already permits Ohio's forest lands to be treated separately for taxation purposes.

New proposals offered in the Senate and House Tuesday included a bill to provide for limited "no fault" auto insurance and a constitutional amendment assuring that reporters would not have to divulge their news sources.

Sen. Ronald Mottl, D-24 Parma, introduced the insurance bill which he said is similar to the Massachusetts "no fault" law. He said it would give policyholders a premium reduction up to 50 per cent and provide that "the injured party would still have the right to sue for significant injuries."

His bill would establish mandatory liability insurance, provide for medical payments up to $2,000 and payment for loss of wages to an injured party, regardless of who was at fault in an accident.

Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, became the second lawmaker to call for a constitutional change to protect newsmen's sources. It would allow reporters to refuse to name sources—even before grand juries and judges. Rep. William Batchelder, R-93 Medina, offered an almost identical proposal in the House earlier this month.

Among five bills introduced in the House was a measure to allow husbands and wives to file separate or joint state income tax returns. Under the existing law, they may file separate returns only if they did so separately in their federal returns.

House Republicans offered their version of a bill to allocate $72 million in federal revenue sharing funds, most of it for vocational education construction. A Democratic administration bill introduced earlier would earmark $92.3 million of the federal funds, mostly for capital improvements, including vocational education.

Sen. Paul Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton, was elected chairman of a 12-member committee to adopt a code of ethics for members of the General Assembly. The committee, divided evenly between Senate and House members, was created by a 1972 bill that raised the pay of legislators from $12,750 to $14,000 a year.

Gillmor said he plans soon to appoint a subcommittee which will draft a code of ethics for consideration by the full committee. Several bills offering other approaches to the code of ethics issue are pending in the House and Senate.

The House State Government Committee opened hearings Tuesday night on the federal constitutional amendment extending equal rights to women and a proposed change in the Ohio Constitution to allow the governor and lieutenant governor run as a team. Both were held over for further hearings.

A crowd of about 50 persons, mostly women, showed up to testify on the equal rights amendment which Ohio would be the 23rd to ratify. They didn't get to, however, after Chairman Michael Del Bane, D-56 Hubbard, postponed testimony until Feb. 13, saying he was acting at the request of sponsors.

Asked to stand to show their preference, the would-be witnesses indicated they were nearly equally divided on the amendment which last year died in the Senate without a floor vote.

Committee members expressed no opposition to the governor-lieutenant governor amendment except for a question of whether they should be nominated jointly. That amendment passed the legislature last year, but was stricken from the May primary ballot by the State Supreme Court on a procedural question.

Peace Reports Continue To Grow

SAIGON (AP) — Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. met for an hour tonight with President Nguyen Van Thieu to discuss a revised draft of a peace agreement.

While the U.S. Embassy would not disclose the substance of the conference, it appeared that Thieu gave President Nixon's special envoy some answers on the revised draft.

Spokesmen would not say whether Haig would meet with Thieu again or when he would leave Saigon.

Haig also is scheduled to confer with the leaders of Cambodia, Thailand and Laos.

There appeared to be growing evidence that a cease-fire was nearing. One indicator was a 7½-hour meeting of Thieu with his National Security Council and four corps commanders; they reportedly discussed what steps they would take to protect the territory and people the Saigon government now controls once a cease-fire goes into effect.

Asian diplomatic sources in Washington said they believe an agreement ending the war is very near. They anticipated that Nixon, in his inaugural address Saturday, would propose postwar rehabilitation of the economies of South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos through continuing economic and military assistance.

This Washington report said there also is expectation that the Soviet Union, Communist China and other major powers will join the United States in guaranteeing the cease-fire.

South Vietnamese officials said Thieu's lengthy conference with his key advisers also dealt with modifications of the protocols to the agreement that spell out how it will be carried out, such as the size of the international force to supervise a cease-fire and the method by which prisoners of war will be freed.

These sources said Thieu has little choice but to join in signing the final treaty because of the threat of a cutoff of U.S. military and economic aid.

South Vietnamese sources said on Tuesday that Nixon and Thieu planned to declare a unilateral cease-fire Friday on the eve of Nixon's inauguration. Sources said today that Nixon and Thieu still plan to declare a cease-fire but the day may be pushed back.

The Presidential Palace issued a denial of a Columbia Broadcasting System report quoting palace sources as saying South Vietnam and the United States were ready to declare a cease-fire. But it was not clear whether the statement was intended to deny the cease-fire report or to deny that the report originated at Thieu's palace.

One senior U.S. official noted earlier, however, that it was possible that the story was leaked deliberately to CBS because of objections by the Saigon government to some conditions it feels Nixon is imposing on it.

Ohio May File Suit Against Fund Freeze

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio is "seriously considering" entering a federal court suit in which Missouri seeks to force President Nixon to release $5.5 million in impounded Highway Trust Fund money.

J. Phillip Richley, director of the Ohio Department of Transportation, said if Ohio does join the suit against the Nixon Administration action, it would be the first major urban state to do so.

"We have reached a point where our situation is so desperate that we are thinking of joining the suit," Richley said.

Because of President Nixon's freeze on the Highway Trust Fund, the Ohio transportation director said the state has had to shelve $53.5 million in construction projects. He has put the total of impounded funds for Ohio at $94 million.

Richley took issue with the administration's logic of impounding the funds to curb inflation.

"Impoundment of the Highway Trust Fund is tragic because the delay adds to inflation rather than combats it," he said.

Richley said one dollar of construction money in 1963 is now worth 58 cents. "It is going to keep going down, and you can see where our $1 is going to be," he added.

He said a decision on what Ohio should do will be made in 30 days after consultations with Gov. John Gilligan and Atty. Gen. William Brown.

"Although we are not sure of doing any good," he said, "it might put the state in a good posture if the courts rule against the impoundment."

The case is presently before the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Kansas City and is expected to go to the U.S. Supreme Court because the matter involves the constitutional powers of the President versus Congress.

Nixon Turns Attention To Inaugural Speech

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP)— President Nixon has turned his attention to the preparation of his inaugural and State of the Union speeches as he prepares to wind up a stay at the Florida White House.

Raymond K. Price, the President's chief speechwriter, is assisting Nixon, also here is H.R. Haldeman, chief of the White House office.

Council Tables Pay Increase For Service Director

Circleville City Council Tuesday tabled a pay increase for service director Atwood Jones by a 4-2 vote. Jones is the only full time city employee not given a pay raise by council.

The ordinance increasing his salary to $13,182 was tabled on the motion by second ward councilman Robert Kenworthy and seconded by third ward councilman Harold Hoffman. Concurring with Kenworthy and Hoffman were fourth ward councilman Gladden Troutman and councilman at large Ben Gordon.

First ward councilman David Goldschmidt and councilman at large David Crawford voted against tabling the legislation.

Money for Jones' pay increase was appropriated by council at the first meeting in January in spite of efforts by Kenworthy to transfer the amount of the increase to another account.

In other action Tuesday, an inequity in the salary increases in the police and fire departments was corrected. Firemen and patrolmen with two and three years service and fire lieutenants with two and three years service did not receive a 5½ per cent increase under the ordinance passed at the last meeting.

The amended ordinances passed Tuesday provide that firemen and patrolmen in the two year bracket receive $7,286, firemen in the three year bracket receive $7,355 and lieutenants in the two year bracket receive $7,683. This applies only to personnel immediately affected by the pay increase.

Other personnel will receive longevity pay increases under the regular scale as approved at the last council meeting.

Legislation held for second and third readings included an ordinance authorizing the safety director to advertise for bids for a 1973 police cruiser; and ordinance authorizing the service director to advertise for bids for a 1973 dump truck with salt spreader and snow plow; an ordinance to accept a quit claim deed from Loren E. Paxton and Charlotte R. Paxton for a parcel of land to be dedicated as a street (Sunset Drive); an ordinance to advertise for bids for materials needed by the service department for street repair during 1973.

A resolution to cooperate with the Pickaway Soil and Water Conservation District was approved. The resolution will permit the district to provide the city with land-use information.

Goldschmidt, who is chairman of council's finance committee, reported the city finished 1972 with all accounts "in the black."

The general fund had a balance of $44,447.52 at the end of the year. The police and firemen's pension fund, another account that has had a deficit much of the time, had a balance of $2,582.57 at the end of the year.

Goldschmidt reported the city has received another federal revenue sharing check in the amount of $51,000, bringing the total received thus far to $104,000. The money has been invested in 30-day notes and is drawing interest. Goldschmidt estimated it will earn over $600 by the time the city designates priorities for the funds and disperses it to the proper accounts.

Service Director Jones reported he has been in contact with the Norfolk and Western Railroad Co. and the Penn Central Co. and the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio concerning the condition of railroad crossings in the city. Jones stated the PUCO has set a deadline for both railroads to repair the crossings and that the N & W has already begun work.

Mayor Frank Barnhill asked council members to survey city streets in need of repair and make a report to Jones so that priorities could be established for the summer repair program.

Absent from Tuesday's meeting was councilman Keith Wagner.

Hospital Expansion Funds Now Available

Legislation approved by Pickaway County Commissioners Monday and Circleville City Council Tuesday will permit the Berger Hospital Board of Governors to begin the first phase of a long range expansion program.

The construction of a $1½ million dollar building to house the hospital's surgical, emergency, radiology laboratory and central supply facilities will be done without the use of tax money, Berger Hospital Director John Reid reports.

The legislation passed by council and the commissioners this week will permit the hospital to borrow $250,000 each against the county's and city's tax duplicate. The money will be repaid from the general operating fund of the hospital and not by the city or the county.

Berger Hospital has approximately $600,000 in bequests and other cash to spend on the construction, and will borrow the remaining $425,000 by issuing general revenue bonds.

All funds for the first phase of construction will come locally according to Reid. Berger Hospital was third on the last priority list for federal funds prepared by the Ohio Department of Health. About $6½ million dollars have been earmarked for Ohio, but Congress has never appropriated the money.

Reid says the general feeling is that it will be three or four years before any federal money is available for Ohio hospitals.

He noted that if the federal money does become available, it will be used to initiate Phase II of the hospital's expansion program. Phase II is to add more patient beds to the hospital. This phase is about 10 years away according to present plans.

Corona Jury Remains Deadlocked

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP) — After five days of deliberation, the jury in the mass-murder trial of Juan V. Corona says it has progressed from a 8-4 to an 11-1 deadlock.

Judge Richard E. Patton ordered the jury not to reveal whether the majority of 11 favored conviction or acquittal.

Defense attorney Richard Hawk told newsmen he was sure that the jury's announcement Tuesday meant 11 jurors favored an innocent verdict for Corona, who is accused slaying 25 migrant farm laborers.

Prosecutors G. Dave Tzja and Bart Williams walked swiftly from the courthouse and refused to talk to newsmen.

The jury had asked that the court reconvene for a rereading of the legal definition of "reasonable doubt," referring to the requirement that a defendant cannot be found guilty unless the prosecution has proven guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

The panel of 10 men and two women then was ordered into further deliberations. The jurors met about one more hour, then recessed for the night. They reconvene today.

The third phase of the expansion will depend on the need at the time. Reid pointed out that plans are such as to permit expansion of the medical facility rather than to have a building that cannot be enlarged.

A study by Mid Ohio Health Planning Assn. done for Berger Hospital indicates there is a definite need for a medical facility for Pickaway County, particularly in the area of emergency services.

Reid pointed out that there were over 9,000 emergency patients treated at the hospital during 1972.

The construction of Phase I will begin this fall and should be completed by late 1974 or early 1975. When the new facility is completed, it will release space to add about 10 beds to the present capacity of the hospital.

The new facility will be connected to the present hospital by a corridor.

Signs To Be Removed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Several hundred illegal billboards will be removed from along Ohio's highways in the next few weeks, according to the Ohio Department of Transportation.

New Names Cover Global Maps

WASHINGTON (AP) — By latest count, the world has 147 independent nation states—give or take a few—and a bunch of unfamiliar name tags dotting the map. Another is due in July.

Preparations are underway for nationhood for the Commonwealth of the Bahama Islands, a Caribbean neighbor which has been a British possession.

The Bahamas are expected to retain their name but not British Honduras, London's Central American colony, when it gains independence at some still unspecified future date.

British Honduras is slated to turn into Boelze, the land's native name, when the new national flag rises over the capital.

Sri Lanka is the island off the tip of India which became the independent country of Ceylon in 1948. Last May, becoming a republic under a new constitution, it adopted a name from its pre-British colonial days.

The biggest state in the heart of Africa isn't the Democratic Republic of the Congo any more. It's Zaire.

Bangladesh, the latest entry into the family of nations, was the eastern wing of Pakistan on the map before its break-away war in 1971.

All this comes with the continuing country explosion set off since World War II with the dismemberment of once great empires and the yearning of the newborn for an identity of their own, minus a lot of colonial reminders.

Only 70 states covered the globe a generation ago. The nation-state population has more than doubled since.

The postwar entries extend over about one fourth of the world's land surface, not counting Antarctica. Their citizens number more than a billion, a third of the global total.

The largest crop comes from the old British and French estates. France, once the greatest landholder in Africa, now owns only tiny French Somaliland in that continent of 42 independent countries.

Of the last 25 to reach nationhood around the world, all but two used to be British.

When once-colonial lands get their new name they often are sensitive about being properly addressed, relates the State Department Geographer R. D. Hodgson.

But not Sri Lanka, Hodgson said. He said that after the name change the Colombo government wanted Ceylon kept in parentheses after its new designation. That way established products associated with Ceylon, such as Ceylon tea, are less likely to suffer a sales drop.

New Philippines Constitution Installs Marcos As Dictator

MANILA (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos officially ended 26 years of U.S.-style government in the Philippines today and signed into law a new constitution providing for a parliamentary system some day.

He said his action was an expression of the "peoples' will."

The 55-year-old chief executive assumed the powers of president, prime minister and the legislature under the new charter. He also announced he was continuing martial law indefinitely "to protect the people and the republic."

Marcos signed his new decrees before some 4,000 members of a

Peoples' Congress that was formed hastily during the weekend in the wake of some 32,000 citizens' assemblies his supporters held throughout the country.

The government said 15 million of the 40 million Filipinos raised their hands in the open public meetings to express their approval of Marcos' martial-law rule.

The president also announced he had cancelled a secret-ballot plebiscite on the new constitution that he had promised previously and was accepting the informal vote of the assemblies as official ratification of it.

In six days of voting, the government said, the assemblies indicated "overwhelming approval" of continuation of martial law, adoption of the new constitution, cancellation of the plebiscite and suspension of elections for the next six or seven years.

General elections had been scheduled for this fall under the old constitution, and Marcos' second term of office was to expire at midnight Dec. 31. The old constitution barred him from a third term.

The new constitution also provides for Marcos to continue to rule by decree until he decides to call a parliamentary election, and there is no time limit.

Watergate Case Magistrate Clearly Boss Of Courtroom

WASHINGTON (AP) — He is 68 years old and there is an edge to his voice that can bring the most persistent lawyer to shame-faced silence. In the Watergate trial, there is no doubt that Judge John J. Sirica is the boss.

As chief judge of the U.S. District Court, he could have assigned the politically sensitive case to any of 22 other judges. But he took it himself.

"Control your emotions," Sirica told defense attorney Henry Rothblatt when he concluded the lawyer was straying too far afield in his opening statement. "Keep on an even keel and don't get your blood pressure up."

And when Rothblatt, representing four Miami defendants who have since pleaded guilty, continued in the same vein, Sirica stepped in again:

Pentagon Papers Case Under Way

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Opening arguments are scheduled today before the jury that must decide if Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo are guilty of espionage, conspiracy and theft for releasing the Pentagon Papers to news media.

Asst. U.S. Atty. David Nissen addresses jurors first, outlining the government's case in charges against the two antiwar defendants that could bring each a maximum sentence of 150 years in prison and $120,000 in fines.

Ellsberg's chief attorney, Leonard Boudin, a veteran civil rights lawyer, then will sketch defense plans. Russo's chief attorney, Leonard Weinglass, has said he will reserve his argument until just before the defense case opens, probably in two months.

The selection of six alternate jurors on Tuesday cleared the way for opening arguments, which were expected to last all day.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Matt Byrne has scheduled testimony in the case to begin on Thursday.

The jury, sworn in Tuesday, is the second panel chosen in the case. The first jury was dismissed because of long trial delay. Proceedings in the selection of the second jury began last Dec. 13.

Appropriations Reform Needed

It has been said many times that one of the greatest needs in Congress is a better organization of the appropriation process. Little has come of efforts to place priorities on spending or force a more realistic look at the total budget process. Or bring about a closer relationship between revenue and outgo.

The result is appropriations are still made in piecemeal fashion with little regard for the effect of the parts on the whole. Whether this will be changed by the 93rd Congress only it can determine, but it will be pressed harder for reform by the administration than it has been at any time in the recent past.

When the 92nd Congress refused to accept the administration's proposal for a ceiling on spending of $250 billion for this fiscal year, it used good arguments for its refusal — including congressional responsibility to control spending. What Congress was restating as a right last year becomes a responsibility this year.

The leadership of both houses, and especially the chairmen of the committees involved in appropriations, will have to exert strict discipline to show they are capable of handling the responsibilities they cherish.

If they persist in enacting appropriations on the individual merits of each without regard for the total result, and if they continue to place their stamp of approval on huge deficits without regard for the inflationary effect, they will in effect abdicate their responsibilities.

There are constitutional questions involved in this controversy between the executive and legislative branches. But the real test of the budget process is the ability to adopt businesslike methods of spending only that which ought to be spent based on anticipated revenues.

The tradition of chaotic appropriations of piecemeal authorizations and instituting new spending programs without regard to their financing is one which needs to be overcome. Congress has the power to reform its processes. If it exercises that authority in a responsible manner, the confrontation with the executive branch could disappear overnight.

If congressional leadership decides to challenge the executive on spending priorities without erecting its own, the taxpayer will continue to be the loser.

Congress should not act as a rubber stamp for administration budget proposals. It can best exercise its own leadership potentials by adding a sprinkling of common sense to its appropriations processes.

Speaking Of Your Health

The subject of hypnosis came up in one of our college seminars.

The main, absorbing question was whether or not hypnosis is respected in modern-day psychotherapy.

Miss A.G.L., Conn.

Dear Miss L.:

Hypnosis today is a valid and potent form of treatment for many types of psychological problems. Highly trained specialists in psychology employ this remarkable form of treatment as an addition to, not as a replacement for, other forms of therapy.

Unfortunately, people in show business, thoroughly untrained in psychological values, have made a parlor game and a stage performance out of the phenomenon of hypnosis.

Hypnosis is recognized as a very significant and useful tool in the control of intractable pain, insomnia, some forms of headache, and in uncovering the basic source of some neurotic behavior. Sigmund Freud, the father of psychoanalysis, used hypnosis extensively before his involvement with psychoanalytical techniques.

The Morton Prince Clinic for hypnotherapy and the Institute for Research in Hypnosis, in New York City, are nationally famous for their scientific contributions to modern-day hypnosis.

Dr. Milton V. Kline, the Director of these Centers, and his co-workers, have been using scientific hypnosis in breaking the cigarette habit, and in the control of obstinate obesity.

NEW YORK (AP) — What little is certain about Phase 3 of the Nixon economic policy is that a lot remains to be seen. It is even suggested that doubt and uncertainty are among its weapons.

We still have controls, no matter how enthusiastically Phase 3 was welcomed as a major step toward free enterprise. Presumably, the same anti-inflation goals are sought too. These have not changed.

What is different is that the mandate and the penalties may not be spelled out as sharply as in the previous phases, but the threat exists that if you want the spelling, just step out of line and you'll get it letter by letter.

There is even some question of whether this is really a phase in the same program or whether the program has been changed. The Nixon program was introduced, you will recall, to restrain rising prices.

Much headway was made toward that goal. The inflation rate has been reduced from 5 to 6 per cent to 3 to 3.5 per cent a year, the lowest at this time among the world's highly industrialized nations.

Still, the problem has not been overcome. In fact, just prior to the announcement that mandatory controls were being lifted on wages and prices, the wholesale price index recorded in December its highest rise in 22 years.

It is the timing, therefore, that provokes the doubts. Mandatory controls were introduced to restrain inflation, but in the midst of one of the most alarming threats to price stability they are lifted — in the name of stability.

While the 19.2 annual rate of price increase in December is not likely to be repeated this month or next, it does suggest that the boom-like conditions now developing could get out of hand without restraints.

In its quarterly economic summary, "Economic Prospects," The Commercial Credit Co. makes these observations about the consumer segment of the economy late in 1972:

In a recent Journal, Dr. Kline pointed out that many of Sigmund Freud's earlier observations are consistent with modern scientific attitudes towards hypnosis.

Is there a scientific explanation for the sense of irritability and tension I feel a few days before my menstrual period?

Can it all be "psychological"?

Miss C.S., Ky.

Dear Miss S.:

Pre-menstrual tension has been observed by doctors and their patients frequently.

Many women develop severe headaches, depression, emotional instability, and irritability such as you describe.

In some instances, the cause is said to be due to fluid retention in the body as a result of a temporary change in the hormone balance.

Undoubtedly, there are psychological overtones to this sense of distress, and both the body and the psyche are temporarily thrown out of kilter.

When patients are assured that the condition has no serious implication, reassurance limits the intensity of their distress.

Tranquilizers are sometimes used to relieve the extreme nervousness. Some diuretic drugs are prescribed to help eliminate extra fluid from the body.

It is amazing how frequently these unpleasant symptoms cease within a few hours after the onset of the menstrual period.

—Plans to purchase new and used autos moved up strongly to an all-time high.

—Plans to purchase household durables and furniture also have reached record levels.

—Plans to purchase single-family housing, which had already attained new highs in the past two quarters, took another substantial jump close to 10 per cent.

—Retail sales have been rising at a 15 per cent annual rate since the first of the year (1972), and close to 17 per cent since June.

—Extensions of installment credit and net changes in installment loans outstanding continue to set new records.

It is conditions such as these, among many others, that causes Henry C. Wallich, the Yale economist and analyst for the summary, to make this prePhase 3 comment: "Moderation, not record gains, must be the watchword from here on out."

Whether Phase 3 is a continuation of restraint, as suggested by its name, or a return to a hands-off policy, is up to the President. The guessing is that, of necessity, it will mean more restraint than is now imagined.

Claim Kissinger Will Quit Soon

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The author of a biography about presidential aide Dr. Henry Kissinger said Monday that he has learned Kissinger will quit his job by the end of the month.

Charles Ashman, during an appearance on a local televised talk shot to plug his book, said he also learned that Kissinger will go to work for the Rockefeller Foundation and has already rented a Waldorf Towers apartment in preparation.

A Waldorf official said he knew nothing of Kissinger reserving an apartment. Rockefeller Foundation officials were unavailable for comment.

Stand Firm For Peace

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Representative Bella Abzug, the raucous Cowbelle Hilda of the New York City Democratic elists, has invited her spiritual constituents in something called the National Peace Action Coalition to come to Washington on Inauguration Day. If there is no ceasefire by then, she wants her legion "to let the President know that he is not THEIR President and that they will not be accomplices to his vengeful and brutal policy of bombing civilians."

Naturally, Cowbelle Abzug, who would have been in her natural element booing the opposition for the old Brooklyn Dodgers at Ebbets Field along with the real Cowbelle Hilda, thinks that Richard Nixon violated his mandate by renewing the bombing raids across the 20th parallel in North Vietnam. She says Nixon won in a "fraudulent election in which millions of Americans were duped into believing that the war would be over and our prisoners home by Christmas."

Pardon me, Bella, but the election was not fought out on the issue of peace on twenty-four hours notice by what amounts to surrender, or peace for the U.S. by easy stages as South Vietnam gains the strength and the expertise to fight its own battles.

True enough, the huge Republican majority was divided between those who trusted Nixon to get us out of Vietnam with honor by Christmas, and those who were willing to let him call his own turn in accepting peace conditions. However, regardless of the status of the peace talks, the Nixon supporters would hardly have pulled the levers for George McGovern. Maybe Henry Kissinger's optimistic talk did turn a few Democrats to Nixon. But surely the thing that won for the President was the gut feeling of thousands that the thick-and-thin McGovern clientele included many chronic America-haters and America-baiters.

The statistics bear me out in this, for it was the George Wallace supporters throughout the South and in the industrial areas of Michigan, Ohio, and Pennsylvania that really gave Nixon his thumping majority.

I have before me a partial list of the sponsors for anti-Nixon demonstrations scheduled, at least tentatively, for January 20. The names constitute a dreary litany. Corliss Lamont, who has made apologies over four decades for every zigzag of the Kremlin line, is one sponsor. Noam Chomsky of M.I.T., the authority on linguistics whose knowledge of words is so opaque that he can't see that our adherence to the SEATO treaty obligated us to help defend South Vietnam against invasion, is another signer. Comedian Dick Gregory is there, along with Father James Groppi and Black Panther "Minister of Education" Huey Newton. The list also includes U.S. Congressman Paul McCloskey, Black Panther Bobby Seale, editor Gloria Steinem of MS magazine, the "conservative anarchist" Dwight MacDonald, novelist Kurt Vonnegut Jr., Sidney Lens of the Chicago Peace Council, and Allard Lowenstein, the chairman of Americans for Democratic Action.

I don't question the sincerity or the patriotism of such a list. But I do know, from many conversations, that a huge cross-section of Americans, from hard hat trade unionists to the numerous suburbanites who reject being lumped together with the radical chic, think of Bella Abzug's friends as enemies of the American system, or the American way, or Middle America, or whatever you want to call it. McGovern was turned down because Middle America, rightly or wrongly, identified him with the Abzug following.

In short, if Nixon has any mandate, it is to oppose any march on Washington dominated by the Abzugians. Bombing is not pretty, but if it was fair for the North Vietnamese to rampage around in Laos, Cambodia, and South Vietnam while the peace talks were going on, it was just as fair for Richard Nixon to attack the home base of the Communist invaders with the B-52s. Two can play the game of continuing war while talking peace.

The New York Times has quoted the French newspaper Le Monde as likening our raids to the Nazi bombing of Guernica, which, according to recently revealed documents, was allegedly destroyed not by bombing but by its own defenders in a "scorched earth" retreat. What the Times did not cite was a Le Monde report that the Communists themselves broke the de facto truce several days before our raids by blowing up a South Vietnamese munitions depot and by a rocket attack on the Bien Hoa military base near Saigon.

Sauce for the goose, etcetera. Nixon should confront the Abzugians with their double standard of morality. Congress, though Democratic, will surely think twice before passing any Abzugian resolution over a veto.

They'll Do It Every Time

Earth-Heat Power Helps Ease Energy Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The heat of molten rock deep within the earth is being harnessed to help meet the energy needs of 18 nations. This source is called geothermal energy, from Greek words meaning earth-heat power.

"I believe that we are witnessing the birth of a vast new source of energy," says Joseph Barnea, U.N. director of resources and transport.

He addressed a seminar here on the development and use of geothermal energy, attended by 250 people from a dozen countries.

Barnea told newsmen the participants agreed that this type of energy was making a breakthrough and was widespread, clean and cheap.

Nobody really knows what keeps the rock molten. Scientists theorize that it is friction in the broken crust of the earth and the radioactive decay of materials underneath.

In most places the molten rock, or magma, is 15 to 25 miles underground. In some places, where there are fissures in the earth, it pushes closer to the surface.

The magma heats other rocks and these turn underground water into hot reservoirs, six miles or less from daylight.

If the hot water can find a way, it comes out in hot springs or geysers. If not, it can be tapped by a well drilled down to where it is.

The wells bring up steam or hot water, or both. The steam can be fed straight through a turbine to run an electric generator. The hot water can be used to boil some volatile liquid, like isobutane, into vapor, and the vapor will spin the turbine that runs the generator.

Tsvi Meidav of the U.N. Resources and Transport Division speculated that eventually hot underground rocks could be tapped for more than double the energy in all the world's estimated coal, oil and gas deposits.

Meidav listed 18 countries where geothermal energy is now being used or developed — the United States, Mexico, Nicaragua, El Salvador, Chile, Iceland, France, Italy, Bulgaria, Hungary, Turkey, the Soviet Union, China, Japan, the Philippines, Indonesia, New Zealand and Kenya. Barnea said U.N. studies showed Ethiopia had enough geothermal energy potential to provide all Africa with electricity.

Italy has been producing electricity from underground heat since 1904 at the Larderello steam field, which helps light Rome.

San Francisco gets electricity from the Geysers, a 12-year-old steam field 85 miles north of there run by the Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

Near Niland in Southern California's Imperial Valley, the San Diego Gas and Electric Co. is building a hot-water electric plant, after investigations by the Bureau of Reclamation, on a design developed by the Magma Power Co. of Los Angeles.

Geothermal energy has other uses.

In the Imperial Valley, the hot water used to generate power will afterward be flashed into steam in low-pressure chambers and the steam will be condensed to fresh water.

This fresh water will be dumped into the Colorado River to lower its salinity and help the United States keep a treaty pledge to Mexico to limit the salt content of the river.

Generation of electricity doesn't amount to a great deal yet. The installed geothermal electric generating capacity of the whole world is only about a million kilowatts.

But it is building up. Under a 1970 act of Congress, the U.S. government is about to issue leases for development on 58 million acres of federal land in 13 states.

An Interior Department panel estimated last year that geothermal energy in the United States could, by the year 2000, be supplying 395 million kilowatts, more than all the U.S. electric generating capacity today.

Barnea says it requires less capital investment than other power sources: $100 to $150 a kilowatt now, against estimates of $200 to $300 for a coal or oilburning power station and $500 for a nuclear power station in 1975.

A geothermal electric plant takes only two years to build.

Charles Baldwin, consultant to the California Senate, listed some problems: Geothermal wells cause land to subside. They throw off some pollution in noise, heat, bad smells and harsh chemicals. Geothermal electricity cannot be built up to peak loads to meet varying needs through the day.

Legislative Report

By MYRL SHOEMAKER,
State Representative
88th House District

The 110th Ohio General Assembly began its biennial session as newly elected and returning members met in Columbus New Year's Day for swearing in ceremonies and to begin work.

For the first time in 12 years, Democrats have gained a majority in the House of Representatives of 58 to 41. In the Senate, Republicans retained a slight edge of 17 to 16. Representative A. G. Lancione, senior member of the House of Representatives with 26 years service, was elected as Speaker of the House and will provide the leadership for the new session.

The first week of the General Assembly was concerned with normal housekeeping resolutions, however,

Report Gilligan Will Propose Pay Increases

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Personnel Director Paul Corey declined today to comment on a report that Gov. John J. Gilligan would propose a 5.5 per cent state employees' wage hike in his budget message to the General Assembly Wednesday night.

There were reports Gilligan would recommend earmarking $35.9 million of the state's 1973-75 general revenue fund budget for the increase.

The hike would result in a near $60 million state employees' pay package, once university, federal and special departmental funds were included.

"My understanding is that we are still going to have to follow at least on a voluntary basis federal (wage control) guidelines," Corey said.

'Big Brother' Television Setup Saves Boy's Life

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Big Brother was watching 9-year-old Jerry L. Johnson Monday—and it was a good thing.

Four of Jerry's friends watched horrified as he fell through the thin ice covering a University Circle lagoon, but a fifth observer was able to do something about it.

The woman—a University Circle police dispatcher monitoring the area's closed circuit television cameras—immediately radioed for police to help the boy.

Two policemen arrived within moments, when only Jerry's hand was above water. One crawled out onto the ice and held the boy's head above the surface until his partner could pull them both to safety.

Police said the boy was frightened and cold but not injured.

several vital pieces of legislation were introduced.

One proposal which will effect many younger men in the community is the Vietnam Veterans' Bonus under this resolution veterans serving after December 1, 1961 or still serving or have been honorably discharged are entitled to $10 bonus for each month of domestic service and $15 for each month of foreign service.

Along with the other bills introduced, was House Bill 40, the State Federal Revenue Sharing Bill, which includes massive assistance for vocational educational programs, new recreational facilities throughout the state and transportation subsidies for the elderly and the handicapped.

The bill calls for appropriating some $92.3 million for the remainder of the current biennium. This amount is based on the state's estimate of revenue it will receive from the federal government prior to June 30, 1973. The second largest portion of the bill $18.5 million is slated for the Department of Natural Resources for use in three major programs. Those programs include $10.8 million on the acquisition and development of regional parks, recreational facilities and wildlife areas to be located within an hour of Ohio's major cities. Twelve metropolitan areas are slated for such facilities.

The Board of Regents would receive a $2 million appropriation to assist two year institutions including technical institutes and community colleges in the purchase of technical equipment.

This week also the Speaker of the House appointed six members to sit on a newly created legislative ethics committee.

I believe that with the creation of this committee, we have made the first positive move to what I feel will be a fair and just code of ethics for all elected officials.

Along those lines, State Representative Pat Swenney, introduced a conflict of interest proposal which, in my opinion, is the toughest ethics bill offered in any General Assembly to date.

The proposal sets up a commission of six members on ethics who will make judgements on questions of ethics for all public officials elected and appointed.

Under the bill, every person elected or appointed to any public office or any public employee designated by the ethics commission would be required to file a financial disclosure statement with the commission. All such statements would be open for public inspection.

Among the other bills and resolutions introduced this week were: House Joint Resolution 6 provides for the joint election of the Governor and Lieutenant Governor; House Bill 9 creates a state lottery planning commission within seven days of passage of the proposed constitutional amendment to allow state lottery if passed by the voters in May; H.J.R. 3 proposes the constitutional amendment to remove the $3,000 limit on state income tax exemptions.

Blacks In Ohio House Hold Balance Of Power

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Nine members of the Ohio House of Representatives have done some adding and subtracting, and no matter what they do, they end up with what looks like political power.

The nine mathematicians are black Democratic representatives from Ohio's largest cities. The way they figure it, House Democrats hold a comfortable, 58-41, margin with the nine black votes, and less than a majority without them.

"...you subtract nine votes from 58," Rep. James Rankin of Cleveland said, "it gives us a hell of a clout, especially when you get down to 49 votes."

Because most measures in the House require a simple majority of 50 votes to pass, Rankin concludes, "We have a balance of power."

Under these circumstances, the black legislators see their situation in the 110th General Assembly calling for action. Those nine votes, they said, can be parlayed into more maneuverability and more power in the Democratic party and the House to bring change not just for black people, but also the poor and disadvantaged in Ohio.

but black legislators put unem-ployment among minorities close behind.

"We will fight to cut the un-employment rate," said McLin. "We know it's about 5 per cent statewide, but anywhere from 25 to 40 per cent in our inner cities. We're going to try to correct that situation."

With this backdrop of concern coupled with the potential for power, McLin said, "We are anxious to accept the responsibility.

"We are going on the notion that everybody knows our potential is there. We have no ideas of being an obstacle, but we do have the necessary votes to take action."

Other state representatives in the black caucus are Thomas M. Bell, Troy Lee James, Ike Thompson and John D. Thompson Jr., all of Cleveland, and Phale Hale of Columbus.

Promising Leukemia Treatment Under Test

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three medical researchers at Ohio State University believe that blood cells of leukemia patients can be taught to recognize and defeat the disease.

Leukemia — sometimes called cancer of the blood — is incurable at the present time. Sometimes it can be controlled.

Government Pushes More Use Of Coal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is considering encouraging the states to ease their application of some secondary antipollution standards in a move to promote greater use of coal to meet the country's energy needs.

Coal has received new attention from the administration because of delays and lagging production of other energy sources.

The Office of Emergency Preparedness has released a study concluding that "selective and temporary relaxation" of secondary antipollution standards would permit substantial substitution of coal for petroleum.

Elmer Bennett, an assistant director of the OEP, said that while states may be encouraged to slow down application of more stringent secondary standards aimed at preventing environmental harm, he doubts the administration will ask Congress to roll back existing clean-air standards.

He said in an interview Monday that coal would still be largely unwelcome in areas struggling to meet the national "primary standards" adopted to protect human health.

In recent years, the coal industry — once the giant of American energy — has been eclipsed by oil, natural gas, the promise of atomic energy, and the restrictions of antipollution standards.

But then it began to appear that development of atomic energy was behind schedule, new oil sources would be delayed, and gas discoveries were lagging. Coal began to achieve a second look from the Nixon administration.

The problems of coal are partly economic: environmentally acceptable low-sulfur coal located in the West is most needed in the East, but transportation costs are high.

All these factors have stirred speculation that Nixon might seek to encourage greater use of coal as a substitute for petroleum, and to ease the transportation costs that keep Western coal from Eastern markets.

Link Cancer, Transplants

BOSTON (AP) — Medical researchers are compiling increased evidence linking cancer with heart and kidney transplants, a member of the Harvard Medical School staff reports.

Dr. Martin S. Hirsch says transplant recipients show a "markedly increased" incidence of cancer. He said 96 cases of malignant tumors have been detected in patients throughout the world who have received organ transplants.

Hirsch said available statistics indicate that rare "reticulum cells sarcomas" are the most common form of cancer encountered in transplant patients. These tumors usually are located in the brain and spinal cord.

Statistics show that this type of cancer occurs 4,000 times more frequently among transplant recipients than in a general population of similar age, Hirsch told a meeting of the Harvard Medical Society last week.

Man Becomes 'Millionaire'

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — When Edward L. Cashman told his truck-driving coworkers Sunday he'd just become a millionaire, nobody believed him. And they were right-sort of.

Cashman, who opened his mail Saturday to find a check for $1,000,034, said he at least felt like a million dollars for a while. But he knew the check was a mistake.

The check, Cashman's dividend payment from the Handleman Co., had been made out for $1 million more than it should have been.

patient's immunity to leukemia can be greatly increased by treatment with substances from the blood of persons who have had contacts with patients and resisted infection," said Dr. Stanley P. Balcerzak.

Dr. Balcerzak, head of the meatology division of the Ohio State University Department of Medicine, has been doing leukemia research with Dr. Albert F. Logubio and Dr. Earl N. Metz.

"If we're right," said Dr. Balcerzak, "it would be a very promising development."

Leukemia victims have too many white blood cells. They suffer bleeding, anemia and low resistance to infections. The disease is generally fatal. The substance which appears to carry immunity from one person to another, said Dr. Balcerzak, is called the "transfer factor." He said research scientists have been familiar with its existence for a number of years, but still do not know exactly what it is.

Studies on patients already have begun, Dr. Balcerzak said, but will be at least five years before the Ohio State team will know if the transfer factor does the same thing in the patients' bodies as it does in the test tube.

Leukemia patients might not be the only beneficiaries. Balcerzak said the transfer factor, extracted from blood cells called leukocytes, carries the donor's immunity to "a great variety of invaders," including most types of cancer. Balcerzak said the available evidence strongly indicated that leukemia is a viral disease, and patients contract it largely because their leukocytes fail to recognize the disease in time to eliminate it.

The leukocytes are one of the bloodstream's defenses against infection and "a very important defense mechanism against cancer," Balcerzak said.

In the OSU tests, researchers located persons who had been in contact with leukemia patients and whose leukocytes, when exposed to the patients' diseased tissue, moved quickly to eliminate the threat as if they had been exposed to it before.

The patients' own leukocytes, which, of course, had been exposed to the disease, continued to react sluggishly to the disease when exposed a second time.

But, Balcerzak said, when "transfer factor" from the resistant person's blood was added to a patient's leukocytes, they suddenly were able to react instantly when exposed to leukemia.

In continuing tests on patients, the Ohio State trio hope to find out if this heightened sensitivity would be enough to wipe out leukemia in the body of a person who already had it.

Currently, the doctors use conventional treatments until the disease is under control, then add the resistant transfer factor to see if it can finish the job.

Hearing Held On State Fire Code

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Acting State Fire Marshal David Lucht says Ohio's new fire code governing alarms in family residences and water sprinkling systems in nursing homes should become law in March.

Lucht made the statement following a hearing Monday on the new fire code. The code was ordered by the 109th General Assembly.

Two sections of the code dealing with fire alarms in one, two and three-family residences and automatic sprinkler systems in nursing homes drew the most attention from the witnesses. More than 200 persons attended the half-day hearing.

The code proposes that "an approved detector shall be installed in the immediate vicinity, but outside of, all sleeping rooms" in family dwellings. It further proposes that the detector be sensitive to any products of combustion, except heat.

The regulation will apply to all new dwellings after the code takes effect.

William Safreed of the Ohio Home Builders Association said that the provision should be deleted from the code. He said local building code enforcement agencies should decide whether they want it in local ordinances.

Lt. Edward LeBlanc of the Shaker Heights Fire Department said a detection system in the home is the "first line of defense" against a tragic fire. "It should be put into all buildings that people occupy," he added.

Lucht said he favors smoke-detection devices rather than heat-sensors for alerting a family to fire.

The fire marshal said a smoke detector is "five times more effective in saving life" and costs considerably less than a heat sensor. One smoke detector could be installed in a hallway outside of a bedroom, he said, but heat sensors would be needed in every room of the house to be effective.

The new code also proposes installation of automatic sprinkler systems in homes for the aged, nursing homes or rest homes, as well as residences occupied persons 62 or older.

This provision of the code would become effective Jan. 1, 1975.

John Pancost, representing a Columbus heating and ventilating company, said the regulation should also include an early warning fire system that would alert residents of the building and the local fire department.

Pancost said the "first concern" of the regulation should be the detection of fire.

Lucht said written statements proposing changes in the code will be accepted until Jan. 26.

The regulations will become law when they are filed with the secretary of state's office.

Ohio Election Nearly Fraud-Free

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The secretary of state's office says an investigation of November voting indicates Ohio, except for a few isolated cases, "ran a fraud-free election in 1972."

James Marsh, election counsel in the office, said "a pretty darn exhaustive investigation" has turned up three possible cases of double voting.

At least one of those cases will not be prosecuted. Both the secretary of state's office and the Hamilton County Board of Elections said no action would be taken against a Xavier University student from Chicago who cast two presidential ballots.

They apparently accept the explanation by John Raymond O'Brien, 19, who said it was a "mistake."

O'Brien said he sent an absentee ballot to Chicago, but it was so close to the election he was afraid it wouldn't get there in time, so he voted in Cincinnati, too.

For the first time, Ohio election officials are beset by double registration because of court rulings that college students could register and vote in their college towns and also may be registered in their home city. They were permitted to vote only once.

Also under scrutiny are servicemen and other citizens who obtained absentee ballots, claiming they would be away from their home precinct election day.

Secretary of State Ted Brown said his office's investigation is expected to continue another 60 days, affecting some 150,000 persons and reaching into all 88 counties and all 50 states.

The bulk of the detective work is being done by local boards of election, but Brown assigned seven of his state investigators to help out.

Brown said the survey has shown that in most cases where a person asked for an absentee ballot, then voted in his own precinct, "he didn't cast the absentee ballot."

Ohio universities have given the state lists of out-of-state students. Brown's office checks to see if the students voted both in Ohio and their home state.

"We are getting good cooperation from other states," Marsh said.

"Many boards are dealing directly with other boards over possible double voting between counties," Brown said. If a board finds a possible violation, it notifies Brown's office.

Marsh said cases of double voting within Ohio will be turned over to local prosecutors. Those involving another state will be handled by the U.S. attorney's office.

The state penalty for double voting is a $50 to $1,000 fine and a one-to-five-year jail term. The federal penalties are a $10,000 fine and up to 10 years in prison if there was a conspiracy and a $1,000 fine and one year in prison if there was no conspiracy.

Ashland Hit By Blue Flu

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Ashland police ended their sick-call work stoppage, beginning with the 11 p.m. shift Tuesday night, after City Council had approved a cost-of-living pay boost.

Only the chief and one other member of the 24-man police force were on duty Tuesday.

Council approved a 10 per cent cost-of-living increase, but police still want to meet with council to talk about other fringe benefits.

Lt. E. A. Lance said today that police asked council Tuesday night for a meeting, but got no definite response. He said police want to discuss with council such matters as an adjustment in the cost-of-living increase, hospitalization, extension of longevity from 15 to 25 years and false arrest protection.

Bernardin Joins Inaugural Rites

CINCINNATI (AP) — Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin will join Evangelist Billy Graham and Los Angeles, Calif. Rabbi Edgar Magnin Sunday in a White House ecumenical service honoring the inauguration of President Richard M. Nixon.

Archbishop Bernardin, former secretary of the Catholic Bishops Conference in Washington D.C., said his acceptance of the White House invitation in no way changes his conviction for a non-violent settlement of hostilities in Vietnam.

Each of the clergymen will deliver a 10 minute sermon during the service in the East Room.

Romney Takes Post With Private Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — George W. Romney has accepted the position as chairman-elect of the National Center for Voluntary Action, a private, nonprofit organization based in the nation's capital.

But the outgoing secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development said Monday he still plans to organize a national "Concerned Citizens' Movement."

Court Of Appeals To Hear Busing Case

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals agreed today to rehear full arguments concerning a controversial desegregation plan for Detroit and 52 suburban school districts.

The court set oral arguments for Feb. 8 at 2 p.m., and ordered its previous opinion in the case vacated pending those arguments.

Woman Faces
Arraignment
In Dual Slaying

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ruby Hammond, 48, was scheduled for arraignment in Municipal Court today on two counts of second-degree murder in the fatal shootings of her husband and a mother of seven.
Police said Clance Hammond, 44, and Alma McKinney, 32, were shot to death Tuesday in a house that reportedly had been converted into a drinking and gambling place.
Witnesses said a woman entered the house shooting, hitting Miss McKinney first, then wounding Hammond in the head as he struggled to take the gun away from the assailant.

Reconstruction
Of Managua Set

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — There are still "thousands of dead" buried in some parts of Managua, but evacuation of survivors from the Dec. 23 earthquake has been completed and the reconstruction phase has begun, the country's ruler says.
Gen. Anastasio Somoza said building has started on 15,000 houses donated by the United States and other members of the Organization of American States.
"We are cleaning up the city," he said. "Within a year we will return to normal."
Foreign relief workers estimated between 10,000 and 12,000 persons died in the quake, which destroyed 600 blocks of the capital city. Damage was estimated at $1 billion.

Loose Tie Rod
Derailment Cause

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — An Erie-Lackawanna freight train derailment that resulted in an explosion and the death of a teenage girl in nearby Harrod two weeks ago was caused by a loose tie rod becoming wedged under a concrete walkway, according to a Public Utilities Commission inspector.
C. Berdell Huber said the concrete areas of the Harrod crossing have been replaced with hot mix asphalt designed to break up on contact. He said the railway also has ordered that similar crossings elsewhere be made the same way.

'Lovely Lady' Caps Nashville Writer's Efforts

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Kris Kristofferson probably said it best when he described the career of his longtime friend, Sorrells Pickard, by writing:
"I'm glad they finally got around to getting ready for this, hoss; but, damn, a man could die of old age before he gets to be an overnight success."
The words, found on Pickard's only album, depict the frustrating story of many Nashville songwriters — minus, of course, the reference to "overnight success." But they apply especially to Pickard, who six years ago roamed into this music town from Jacksonville, Fla., and has carved a fine reputation.
No doubt, Kristofferson would have been even more inclined to extol Pickard's abilities had he heard his newest song, "Lovely Lady."
It may very well be the best writing Pickard, 33, has done. For that reason, one can't question that the public is, indeed "ready for this" as Kristofferson says.
The song takes a critical look at America and brings to mind the message portrayed in Don McLean's "American Pie." But the similarity ends there, for lyrically and melodically they're worlds apart.
The second verse of "Lovely Lady" reads: And with our hands across our heart We pledged to love no one but her And in return she'd do the same But somewhere the promises of liberty For all just got mislaid or were they Quietly hid away And all the things she taught us to believe It's not so much I mind the being lied to But it hurts to be deceived.

"I'd just like everybody to hear the record," Pickard said. "It doesn't make the charts, that's not what really counts — as long as everyone hears it once."
Among other things, Pickard said the Vietnam war compelled him to write the song.
"I'd been kind of halfway freaked out about the things that happened in the world recently. I think we've all been deceived a little bit."
Not to be too pessimistic, though, "Lovely Lady" does hold hope for a better America: But together we can find where she went wrong And let us take this lovely lady By the hand and welcome her back.
Writing music and performing has always been a way of life for Pickard, a large man who writes mostly of his life's experiences, but who offers a impressionistic message in each song.
Thinking of his boyhood days, he said, "If we weren't playing parcheesi, we were singing. It was like a ritual to sing every night." His entire family plays music.
"Take my grandmother. She plays the old boogie type piano. But arthritis slows her down now," he said.
After four years of traveling with country music star Del Reeves and playing bass guitar at the Grand Ole Opry, Pickard's career took a turn when he bumped into former Beatle Ringo Starr.

The two put their heads together and a short time later Starr, who was doing a country-oriented album, used four of Pickard's songs.
About the same time, Pickard came out with his first album, an impressive blend of soft serious country-folk and easy listening music.
"Sometimes you can get up in the morning and feel like writing," said Pickard. "There's no explanation for it."
"When the words are coming, you can't stop them. They just flow. But when they do stop, you can't kick them back in either. You just have to wait for the right moment."
Waiting for the "right moment" is something Pickard does well.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Husband Takes 'Close Relatives' Serious

DEAR ABBY: My problem is with my husband, age 32, and his two nieces, ages 16 and 17. (They are sisters.)
We went to an all-night roadhouse inn to have breakfast at 2 a.m., and my husband disappeared with the 17-year-olds for two hours. They said they were upstairs looking at the view.
When they came back I didn't say anything, but I was plenty mad. Whenever my husband and I take these two nieces out, he takes turns dancing with them and leaves me sitting. It's gotten so he never takes me out alone, he's always got these girls with us. He has fixed them up with dates with some of his friends who are his age, and for all I know my husband could be seeing them himself. He has disappeared for whole nights and comes home with lipstick on his shirts.
I have told the girls' mother about this and she says I am silly to worry, but I don't think I am because there was a lot of talk about incest in their family between my husband's younger brother and his older sister.

When my husband says goodbye to these nieces, he kisses them on the mouth. My question? Is this healthy?
JEALOUS IN COLORADO
DEAR JEALOUS: It's not healthy, and neither is the relationship between your husband and his young nieces. Set this swinger down and talk to him like a Dutch Uncle, or that uncle will be in Dutch for fooling around with minors.
DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have a little problem we need help with. We have been going to a doctor for the past four years since we've moved to this town. Once, when our regular doctor was on vacation his partner filled in for him, and Abby, the partner was fantastic! I liked him so much better than my regular doctor.
My husband also had the partner and liked him better than our own.
We would like to switch over to the partner but we don't how to go about it. We are so afraid of hurting our first doctor's feelings.
Do you happen to know how doctors feel about this sort of thing?

PTA News

WALNUT TWP. PTO
Walnut Twp. Parent Teacher Organization met recently to accept the constitution and by laws for the organization.
A committee has worked many nights wording and planning this constitution until this time no special rules were in effect. A very complete but workable constitution was accepted by those present.
Principal's report was given by Dave Barnett. He announced most items purchased by the PTO for the classrooms, library and playground had arrived and were in use. A motion was made to purchase cement to install the new playground equipment whenever weather would permit.
After lengthy discussion it was decided the PTO would take over the "country store" at the end of this school year. This means the PTO will order and sell school supplies so the children can purchase such items during their lunch time.
Volunteers will manage the store daily and all profits will go into the principal's fund to purchase equipment for use in the local school.
The other items of business concerned the annual school consignment sale. It was announced this sale will be held March 10. Anyone desiring to donate or consign articles for the sale are urged to contact the school soon so the articles may be advertized ahead of time.

Double Jeopardy
Barred By Justices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court held today that an earlier decision barring prosecution in both municipal and state courts for the same offense applies to past as well as future cases.
In 1970, the court held that the Fifth Amendment guarantee against being twice tried for the same crime prevented "the recognition of the 'dual sovereignty' doctrine with respect to separate state and municipal prosecution." Justice William Rehnquist wrote for a unanimous court.

Judge Orders Defendant To Aid Sick Cell Fight

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A judge has given a black man convicted of assaulting a policeman a choice of going to jail or recruiting blacks to be tested for sickle cell anemia.

"I helped you, now it's your turn to help your people," Criminal Court Judge Alfonso Sepe told Joe Louis Wilcox on Monday.

"You will recruit black married couples to be tested for sickle cell anemia. I want you to recruit them by the hundreds to determine if they are carriers of the disease."

Wilcox, 40, had pleaded guilty to resisting arrest and assaulting Miami officer Antonio Prieto while Prieto was trying to arrest Wilcox for disorderly conduct. The charge carries a maximum prison term of five years.

The 6-foot-2, 295-pounder bowed his head after he admitted the felony, then begged Sepe for mercy. Both Prieto and the prosecutor recommended probation for Wilcox.

Announcing his decision, Sepe placed Wilcox on probation for two years and then appended the requirement that Wilcox aid in the search for young blacks who have sickle cell anemia.

If Wilcox fails to carry out the mission, he can expect to go to jail, Sepe cautioned.

Sickle cell anemia is a hereditary blood disease present in about one out of every 500 newborn blacks. Doctors estimate as many as one in 10 blacks suffer from the malady.

The disease causes an abnormal formation of blood protein in body cells. Under emotional stress, cells then form irregular, elongated shapes which clog small vessels, form blood clots and deprive vital body organs of blood and oxygen. There is no known cure for the disease, often fatal.

U.S. Steps Up Air Raids Against Viet Reds In South

SAIGON (AP) — Despite reports that a cease-fire may be near, U.S. B52s and other warplanes pounded North Vietnamese positions in South Vietnam Tuesday and today with the heaviest strikes in more than a month, the U.S. Command announced.

With the bombing halted over all of North Vietnam, more American strikes were being carried out across South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, U.S. officials said.

Raids by fighter-bombers increased by more than one-third to 311 in South Vietnam during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m., the command said.

U.S. B52 bombers launched about 90 strikes across South Vietnam during the same period, dropping up to 2,700 tons of explosives on North Vietnamese troop concentrations, staging areas and supply caches.

The aim of the raids apparently is to prevent a big North Vietnamese supply buildup prior to a cease-fire. The bulk of the air strikes were in Quang Tri Province just below the demilitarized zone and in the Saigon River corridor northwest of the capital. Both are major infiltration corridors and staging areas.

A substantial North Vietnamese buildup has been reported along the river corridor in an area 35 to 50 miles northwest of Saigon. About one-third of the B52 raids were concentrated in this region, although no major fighting was reported there.

Twenty 122mm rockets hit Da Nang Air Base and an adjoining village before dawn, wounding one Vietnamese and damaging six buildings and one aircraft, the Saigon command said. No U.S. casualties were reported.

Minnesota Stops Marquette

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer
When the crowd in Minneapolis' Williams Arena starts hollering "Brew," that mean Minnesota's Jim Brewer is at it again.

Brewer did his thing—tight, hard-nosed defense and rugged rebounding—against Larry McNeill and the Marquette Warriors Tuesday night, and the result was a 64-53 victory for sixth-ranked Minnesota, 11-1.

For seventh-ranked Marquette, it was the second loss in a row after a string of 11 victories. The Warriors hit just 23 of 77 shots from the field—29.9 per cent—and McNeill, their 6-foot-9 star forward, connected on only six of 25 tries.

A big reason was Brew.
The strong, 6-9 senior forward, who played on the U.S. Olympic team at Munich last summer, scored 10 points, sinking all four of his field goal attempts and both his tries from the foul line. But it wasn't the scoring that had the fans shouting, it was the rest of Brewer's game.

He crashed the boards for 10 rebounds as Minnesota outrebounded Marquette 48-38. He blocked three Warrior shots. And he hounded McNeill all night long.

Marquette Coach Al McGuire, who drew a pair of technical fouls for his outburst on the bench during the game, was considerably calmer afterwards.

"They were just too physical for us," the dapper McGuire said. "I don't think any good team ever shoots 29 per cent."

"I think Minnesota is better than we are ... at least tonight they were."

Clyde Turner provided the offensive punch with 20 points for the Gophers in the game played before a crowd of 17,987 plus 4,002 more who watched a closed circuit telecast in a next-door hockey arena.

In the only other game involving a team in the top 20, 12th-rated Houston sank 63 per cent of its shots from the field in whipping crosstown rival Rice 96-77.

County Schools Face Curtailed Cage Slate

It will be Friday night action only for all three county schools this week with Teays Valley hosting Hamilton Twp. in a Metro tilt and Westfall traveling to Logan Elm to meet the Braves in a Scioto Valley Conference contest.

There will be darkened gyms in the county Saturday night as all three schools get a well deserved rest for the first time this year.

Coach Bob Hoover will send his Metropolitan League leading Vikings after another league victory against Hamilton Twp. The Vikings are on top in the Metro with a mark of 7-1 and are sporting a season mark of 8-4.

Teays Valley has been coming on strong and has developed into a powerful offensive machine. The Vikings will be going into the contest off a big 88-78 win over Logan Elm last week.

Coach Hoover has been getting some solid scoring off the efforts of Craig Pontius, Jim Logsdon, Jerry Sabine, Jeff Anderson, Jay Brinker, Terry Lambert and Terry Collins who should see plenty of action in the contest.

Coach Dave Little will be sending his high scoring Logan Elm Braves, paced by sharp shooting Tom Sykes and Tim Justice, against the winless Mustangs of Coach Jeff Bigam in a SVC tilt.

The Braves are 10-2 for the season and hold a 3-0 mark in the conference. Westfall has had trouble breaking into the win column this season and is 0-13 in season play. The Mustangs haven't been able to put it all together this year but came up with a fine defensive effort before dropping a 51-50 decision to Piketon last Friday night.

The Cougars sank 10 of their first 12 shots in building a 22-14 lead after seven minutes and never trailed. Dwight Jones scored 29 points and Louis Dunbar 28 for Houston, now 12-2.

Oral Roberts, playing without star guard Richie Fuqua, managed to beat South Dakota 92-79 as David Vaughn scored 20 points and grabbed 16 rebounds and Al Boswell tallied 22. Fuqua sat out the game with a bruised right knee. It was the 50th consecutive victory at home for the Titans.

In other major games, Duquesne got 22 points from Reuben Montanez and a schoolrecord 29 rebounds from Lionel Billings in routing Wheeling 99-62; freshman Larry Carr scored 29 points as West Virginia topped Lehigh 75-63, and Princeton used a patient offense, which included a sevenminute stall at one point, to beat Temple and its zone minute stall at one point, to beat Temple and its zone defense 44-37.

Pacers Trip Denver; Win Tilt 130-113

"My arm," admitted Billy Keller, "is a little tired."

The 5-foot-10 Indiana guard pumped in a career high 38 points—including an American Basketball Association recordtying six three-point goals—as the Pacers beat Denver 130-113 Tuesday night for only the second time in seven meetings this season.

In the only other ABA action, Julius Erving poured in 46 points as the Virginia Squires rallied to defeat the Memphis Tams 127-122.

Keller hit his first four attempts from three-point range and apparently had one in the final second that would have given him the record by himself, but the referee ruled he was inches inside the threepoint line.

"We put it together," Keller said. "We ran and rebounded. This was a ballgame the guys were up for. Playing them six times and getting beat five times, we were due. I think this was one of my best ballgames. Every guy on the court was giving me the ball."

Keller was backed up by Mel Daniels with 23 points, George McGinnis with 22 and Darnell Hillman with 21. Ralph Simpson topped Denver with 31 and lanky Dave Robisch added 28.

Dolphins' Evans And Little On Squad For Pro Bowl

DALLAS (AP) — Now that most of America knows the identity of Miami's "No-Name" defense, Larry Little would like for you to take a minute to learn the cast of the Dolphin offensive line—he likes "Miami Maulers" if you want to give them a tag.

Miami's offensive line, headed by All-Pro guard Little, destroyed Washington's front four in last Sunday's 14-7 Super Bowl VII victory.

"They say Washington didn't seem to have much spark but I like to think we knocked the fire they had out of them," said Little. "We have a tremendous offensive line and for the most part nobody has ever heard of them."

"We've got Norm Evans at right tackle, I'm the right guard, Jim Langer at center, Bob Kuchenberg at left guard and Wayne Moore and Doug Kusan alternating at left tackle.

"I sure am proud of the job these guys did."

Evans and Little are the only members of the Miami offensive line on the American Conference squad of Sunday's Pro Bowl game with the National Conference All-Stars in Texas Stadium Sunday.

Little said, "Anything is possible with the material we've got on this (Miami) team and I'm talking about doing it again next season and going 24-0."

The Miami list of players in the Pro Bowl was cut to eight Tuesday when wide receiver Paul Warfield had to withdraw because of an illness in the family. He was replaced by J. D. Hill of Buffalo. In the NFC, Walt Garrison of Dallas replaced Washington's injured Larry Brown at fullback.

Asked if he had any thoughts about the Pro Bowl after celebrating the victory over Washington, Little said "Yep. The American Conference is now leading in Super Bowls and we're going to be leading in Pro Bowls after Sunday."

The NFC and AFC stand 1-1 entering the game.

New Carlton Pact Worth $165,000

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A tall, dark-haired young man with a mustache approached the reception desk in the office of the Philadelphia Phillies.

"Is Paul Owens in please?" the visitor asked the receptionist?

"Who wants to see Paul Owens?" the girl retorted.

Yes, there is at least one person in Philadelphia who didn't recognize super pitcher Steve Carlton.

The embarrassed young lady waved Carlton toward Owens' office where a few minutes later he affixed his signature to a contract that made him the highest paid pitcher in baseball.

The Phillies wouldn't disclose the exact amount, but Director of Player Personnel Paul Owens said it was more than the reported $150,000 earned by Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals. Gibson is recognized as the top salaried hurler in the game.

The 27-year-old Carlton immediately set a goal for himself for 1973 commensurate with his lofty salary figure—reportedly $165,000.

"My goal for next year is to win 30 games," said the National League's best pitcher. Nobody laughed.

Teays Valley Sets Benefit Cage Game

Teays Valley faculty will meet the Circleville faculty in a benefit basketball game for Jeff Beatty 7 p.m. Monday at the Vikings' gym.

There will be a preliminary game between the Teays Valley women and the high school girls.

Indy Cars May Compete Against Formula 1 Racers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Indianapolis-type race cars may soon be competing wheel-to-wheel with the trim, maneuverable Formula 1 Grand Prix racers, a welcomed prospect to the U.S. Auto Club.

The Commission Sportive International voted recently in Paris to allow European Formula 2 cars and American Indianapolis and Formula A cars into Formula 1 races whenever the field could not be filled with primary machinery.

The action resulted from a money squabble between the Grand Prix organizers and racing teams.

"You'd better believe it," Dan Gurney told the Indianapolis News when asked if he'd like to put an Indianapolis car in a Formula 1 field.

"Provided you have a first-rate roadrace driver like Mario Andretti or Mark Donohue or the Unser brothers, if they should get a little bit of experience, I think we could whip 'em," he said.

The Grand Prix season opened Jan. 28 in Buenos Aires, Argentina, but an Indianapolis car probably will not make its first appearance until the Grand Prix of South Africa March 3, said Tom Binford of Indianapolis, one of two American delegates to the Paris commission.

"I feel it would be a great crowd-pleaser," Binford said, "but I doubt if it would be too successful."

At the moment there are no road courses on the USAC schedule, but Executive Director Bill Smyth said at least three are planned.

Both Smyth and Binford feel this could lead to an international formula on engine size that would allow car exchanges in all major world races.

Athletic Scholarship Lid To Aid MAC Title Chances

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Mid-American Conference should compete better with college football's big boys in the future.

At least that's what league commissioner Fred Jacoby and Mid-American football coaches think,

Ben Kelso Chosen

Top MAC Player

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Central Michigan's record-shattering guard Ben Kelso is the Mid-American Conference Basketball Player of the Week.

A panel of newsmen selected him for the honor after the 6-foot-3 senior scored 84 points in two games last week, one of which was 49 points for a school record against Marshall.

See Cass Jackson

As Oberlin Coach

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Plain Dealer said today that Cass Jackson, defensive backfield coach at San Jose State, will be named head football coach at Oberlin College at a 10 a.m. news conference Saturday.

Jackson, 30, a black, would be coaching a predominantly white team.

pointing to new NCAA legislation placing a lid on scholarships for the sport.

"Under unlimited scholarships, a school could literally buy a championship," said Jacoby, who oversees the Mid-American's much stricter grant-in-aid program.

The NCAA rule will limit new grants to 30 a year and a total of 105 scholarships for football, which will narrow the gap between the national powers and the MAC.

The Mid-American's total football grants are dwindling from 82 this year to 78 in 1973 and 75 in 1974.

Jacoby wholeheartedly endorses the NCAA ceiling as do the Mid-American coaches, an Associated Press survey showed Tuesday.

"There should be a greater pool of talent available to us," Jacoby said. "I think there should be limitations for two primary reasons," the commissioner continued. "It helps stabilize your budget and creates certain equality in competition."

Jacoby said the new rule's impact won't be felt for four years when the NCAA members must meet the 105 total. It becomes law Aug. 1, so coaches will be restricted to the one-year figure of 30 players after the 1973 season.

Sophomore Scott Love led Ohio's attack against Eastern with 18 points as the Bobcats built up as much as an 18-point margin in the second half. Teammate Denny Rusch, a 6-foot-8 junior, added 16 points.

Taking game scoring honors with 35 points was Eastern Michigan's Gary Tyson, a 5-11 deadeye guard who finished last season with a 52 per cent shooting average.

The loss dropped the Hurons to a 4-8 mark. Ohio now is 9-6 over-all.

Viking Juniors Drop Cage Tilts

Teays Valley's seventh and eighth grade cage squads both went down to defeat at the hands of West Jefferson Tuesday on the Roughriders' court.

The Viking seventh graders were beaten 33-22 after being tied 2-2 at the first period buzzer, trailing 12-9 at the half and holding the short end of a 2-13 count at the conclusion of the third quarter.

Ron Little had 11 points, Bill Dowell seven and Rick Queen four to account for the Viking tallies. Tirey and Hunter each had 12 markers for West Jefferson.

Teays Valley's eighth graders trailed 8-6 at the end of the first canto, 19-15 at halftime, 30-25 at the finish of the third stanza and lost 45-39.

Terry Trego paced the Vikings with nine tallies, Tim Tosca and Gregg Cline each had eight, Charles Morrison and Jeff Voss scored six apiece and Dewey Chaffin had two. Shipley led West Jeff with 16 markers.

The seventh graders are now 2-4 for the season and the eighth grade squad 1-7. Both teams will be back in action Tuesday at Westfall.

OU Tops Eastern Michigan, 89-73

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio University basketball Coach Jim Snyder, whose team has had a surprisingly poor start this season, was encouraged by the Bobcats' performance in beating Eastern Michigan 89-73 Tuesday night.

"Several players gave us good movement, which is what we were lacking," the longtime OU mentor observed.

"We got some action stirred up out there tonight," Snyder said. "I thought we had some real good combinations that we'll have to take a better look at."

Snyder undoubtedly was thinking ahead to Saturday's clash with Mid-American Conference foe Western Michigan.

The Bobcats, pre-season favorite to win the MAC title, will be going to Kalamazoo with a 1-2 league mark and situated deep in the conference standings. Western Michigan is winless in three league games.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our daughter,
Beverly Mettler, who passed away,
Jan. 13, 1970 and of our son, John E.
Wertman who passed away, Jan. 13, 1972.
I cannot hear your friendly voice
That used to fill the room.
Or any fleeting echo that might Penetrate the gloom.
I cannot seem to reach your hand
Or see your wistful face.
And yet somehow within myself
And in my loneliness, I feel your presence near.
Just as of yesterday.
Sadly missed by parents,
sisters, and brothers,
Mrs. Ruth Wertman

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A very active day and evening when some unpredictable conditions arise to give you a chance to forge ahead more swiftly. You find you have all kinds of advanced ideas and good judgment for putting across some course of action that is of a very substantial, basic nature.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Formulate the right plan for handling home and property matters most efficiently, and let them coincide with civic work you want to do. Gain the backing of a higher-up. The evening will then be a happy and satisfying one.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Find the right method for handling your routine affairs more effectively so you get greater profit from them. You have some idea that can be made practical and add to present income. Evening good for romance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Find some new outlet through which you can add to present income and utilize free hours intelligently. Listen to what a clever business expert has to suggest. Evening best spent at home.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good day to get in touch with those with whom you have had misunderstandings, whether of a business or personal nature and reach right accord. Don't lose your temper and all goes well. Show you have wisdom.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can make the behind-the-scenes preparations now that will insure the success of some plan you have in mind. Your intuitions are good, so don't put them aside. They can be most helpful in your dealings with others.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have to take the lead with friends and associates if your relationships with them are to be successful now. Show true devotion to kin. Make this a very interesting and happy day, p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) The Full Moon can help you make big advancement in the world of business, so get out early and show you have real know-how. Get the okay of kin before you start that civic work that interests you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Find some new and better system for handling personal and emotional affairs. Uncover the data you need that can be most helpful. Don't neglect to pay important bills, make mortgage and insurance payments on time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Follow your hunches and get those practical affairs handled far better than has been possible in the past. Make the right changes and get ready to take the trip that appeals to you. Avoid one who crimps your style.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Ideal day to get into new topics with partners, kin and mate and make the future more successful, satisfying and effective. Listen to the ideas of others as well as expounding your own. Find that happy point of camaraderie.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do the important work that you like to do first and get right results and then you can easily handle the unimportant. A good day to pick up that new outfit you have in mind. Show you have excellent taste.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can follow through with those ideas you have for recreation that can also help to bring in the bacon. Try to build up the ego of mate and have more accord in the future. Don't take some situation to heart so much.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY He or she will be one of those delightful young people who will be almost born with divine discontent that could lead to real martyrdom if you, as parents, do not teach early to stand up for own rights and have more faith, as well as confidence in himself or herself. Teach to smile more and to develop a sense of humor, which can be a lifesaver at times. There can be fame in this chart provided the forte is found and specialized in early in life. Religion a must here.

Views On TV And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) "The Sonny & Cher Comedy Hour," filmed in a grassy, gently rolling depression that once was a volcano — was in-tone for a show starring owls, bats, hyenas and something called a Texas blind salamander.

Don't switch the dial yet. It's a good program. No kidding. It enlightens on the subject of darkness. In fact, that's the whole point of the show.

The program, "Strange Creatures of the Night," is the season's first special from the National Geographic Society. It's a quiet, true-life thriller the whole family can watch.

This excellently photographed documentary covers two areas — how animals with sight act at night and how creatures trapped in total darkness underground have evolved and survived without sight.

Most of the filming was done without the battery of high-intensity lights normally needed for night photography. The producers instead used a new electronic image-intensifying device attached to their cameras.

The available light — from the stars and moon — was augmented by infrared floodlights that cast beams apparently undetected by the animals that were being photographed.

The result was a fine, un-hurried look at the nocturnal habits of such diverse creatures as the hyenas of East Africa and the feared vampire bats that feed on cattle herds from Mexico to Argentina.

American Imprint On South Vietnam Worries Oldsters

SAIGON (AP) — Girls in snack bars wear Rolling Stones T-shirts. A slender young man speaks English like a Pentagon memo. A middle-aged woman drives a bulldozer. A rice farmer watches cowboy movies on television.

All this and more since the Americans came.

It has been a blitz. One year there were 16,000 Americans. Four years later, there were more than half a million — 10 times as many as the French colonialists ever numbered.

The Americans paid a week's wages for a taxi ride, built an airport in two weeks and blasted an acre of jungle into compost on the chance of killing one Viet Cong. A Vietnamese could make a fortune just picking up after them.

"With the French, it was an infiltration system," says a Vietnamese professor, "with the Americans, a shock treatment."

Most of the Americans have gone, but South Vietnam still is reeling. A society that was once simple and orderly has grown new classes and new appetites.

The U.S. military needed people to wash clothes and lug boxes, so it hired them. U.S. agencies and contractors needed people to type, lay bricks, cook and fix air conditioners, so they trained them. The Americans needed Vietnamese experts for "nation building," so they sent them to school.

To keep inflation down and morale up, television sets, wrist watches and a million motorbikes were imported to sop up the incoming dollars.

English has supplanted French as the most popular foreign language in secondary schools. Employment of Vietnamese in the "U.S. sector" peaked at more than 160,000 in 1969. The average employee of the Americans earned two to four times the average income, creating pockets of affluence.

The Sears Roebuck "wish book" is popular reading in magazine stalls. Vietnamese officers' jeeps become family cars by night.

Civil servants rely on graft and military men on black marketeering to provide luxuries. No government program has succeeded in stopping them.

The war displaced an estimated seven million South Vietnamese at one time or another and started a great migration to the cities. Officials hoped that, when peace came, the uprooted would drift back to the land, but they have changed their minds.

Nguyen Van Anh, vice minister of national planning and development, foresees an even greater influx into the cities as South Vietnam's million-man armed forces are demobilized.

It is not all bad, says Anh, because, "by bringing people into the army, we have given them a glimpse of the world outside their villages and we have opened their minds. Without the war, this process might have taken most of a century."

The war also has had an incalculable impact on the Vietnamese family.

Children have grown up with fathers gone. Working wives frequently earn more than soldier husbands. Before the war, less than one-fourth of the university students were women, but now the percentage of coeds is well over one-third.

The draft and the high cost of setting up housekeeping caused registered marriages in Saigon to drop although the city was growing. The nuptial age rose by four years for both sexes, and the latest statistics show women initiated 960 of 1,140 divorces.

Hundreds of women have paid a month's salary or more for cosmetic surgeons to sew Caucasian-style folds into their eyelids or make their noses thinner and straighter.

Much recent Vietnamese architecture shows no relationship to tradition. New homes are ornamented with cement parabolas or triangles, and there is no trace of French or Chinese discipline.

"Experimentation?" a Vietnamese homeowner was asked. "Dislocation," he answered.

American music is popular among Vietnamese teen-agers, but it is not theirs. A people with every reason to sing the blues can't get the hang of the sound made by black Americans.

"The most significant of our shortcomings," an American official wrote recently, "has been that we have failed to provide a dream ... At no time have we attempted to tell the people what is at the end of the rainbow. What is the great aspiration which can make their suffering tolerable and their sacrifices worthwhile?"

Don't the Vietnamese already have a dream of their own? Yes, say many Vietnamese. When asked to describe it, they talk simply of prosperity and peace.

At this point, many Vietnamese seem not quite sure what they are and what they want to be.

And it is peace that may put Vietnam's culture to its toughest test yet.

"The war has opened the people's minds, but it has had bad effects on young people," says Vice Minister Anh of the national planning ministry.

"Live and love and die — that is their slogan. They don't want to think about building the future. They just want to live before they die."

Ex-FBI Agent To Disclose Watergate Telephone Taps

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former FBI agent who said he monitored 200 wiretapped telephone calls as a spy for President Nixon's re-election campaign was to take the stand today in the Watergate political-espionage trial.

Alfred C. Baldwin III, who served as Martha Mitchell's bodyguard before taking on his espionage role, is expected to be the government's key witness against the two remaining defendants arrested in connection with the break-in and bugging at Democratic party headquarters last summer.

On trial are G. Gordon Liddy, former counsel to Nixon's campaign finance committee, and James W. McCord Jr., who was campaign security chief at the time of the break-in.

Five other defendants have pleaded guilty and await sentencing.

In testimony Tuesday, college student Thomas Gregory said he had no qualms about accepting pay from former White House consultant E. Howard Hunt for spying on Democrats. Hunt pleaded guilty to the conspiracy and wiretapping charges last week.

Defense lawyer Gerald Alch questioned Gregory at length and said later he was trying to establish that Republicans found it necessary to spy on Democrats because of a fear of campaign violence.

Baldwin's testimony follows detailed accounts Tuesday by police officers of how they surprised five men inside the Democratic National Committee headquarters in Washington's Watergate complex last June 17.

Frank Wells, a security guard at the Watergate, said he called police after he found door locks in a basement level taped open, removed the tape and later found them retaped.

Plainclothes officer John B. Barrett, one of three policemen who answered Wells' call, said they found other doors propped open with chairs, offices in disarray, files open, record books spread open on tables. Finally, Barrett said, as he worked his way across an office area he saw a man's arm appear through a glass partition and dart down "right in front of my face."

"Needless to say I was alarmed," Barrett said to the chuckles of the jury. "I jumped back. Then I yelled, 'hold it.' Then, 'I saw numerous hands go upward.'"

EPA Would Ration Gasoline To Cut California Pollution

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A recommendation by the Environmental Protection Agency administrator to ration gasoline in Southern California as an air-pollution solution has drawn initial unfavorable reaction from state and local officials.

"I think that anyone who suggests gasoline rationing in Los Angeles County as an answer is overestimating what it could accomplish," said Gov. Ronald Reagan in Sacramento after the announcement Monday by EPA chief William D. Ruckelshaus.

Ruckelshaus said at a news conference that the proposal to limit gasoline usage by up to 82 per cent would apply—if approved after a series of public hearings—to almost all of Los Angeles County, all of Orange and Ventura counties and much of Riverside, San Bernardino and Santa Barbara counties.

The EPA had no alternative under the Clean Air Act of 1970 but to propose a plan to meet the 1977 air standard for hydrocarbons, he said.

A. J. Haagen-Smit, chairman of the state Air Resources Board, called the proposal "impossible."

"It would be worse than Prohibition," he said. He added, however, that it may be the lever to implement new air-pollution laws advocated by the board but vetoed by state legislators. An example, he said, would be removal of all lead from gasoline.

Under the plan, researchers at the Los Angeles Area Chamber of Commerce predicted, the cut in motor vehicle mileage could cause a loss of up to 400,000 jobs in the area.

"We seem to be throwing the baby out with the bathwater," said Frederick Llewellyn, chamber president.

Mayor Sam Yorty called the proposal "kind of ridiculous on its face."
